DETECTING INTRUSIONS

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Detecting intrusions includes detecting a possible security problem at a client location, transmitting notice of the possible security problem across a network in real time to a home location remotely located from the client location, determining at the home location an anomaly based on at least the possible security problem, and transmitting notice of the anomaly in real time to the client location.

20300894.doc